COMPETITION PHASE

Axonometry

The proposal consists of a group of buildings around a garden that (re)define and (re)organise a block and generate new relationships with the existing road and building environment. The invisible presence of the Ribeira de Benfica culvert is the geometric reason for laying out the footpaths. The internalised space is conceived as a concave-shaped garden whose gravitational centre will be occupied by a circular lake surrounded by massive trees, which filter the relationship of scale between it and the built volumes. The perimeter built on a foundation of constant elevation generates the horizontal altimetric reference, creating a surface capable of welcoming residents and visitors, offering sun and shade, as well as wind-protected amenity.
