Round Table on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity

International Conference on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity

The Thematic Workshop entitled “Round Table on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity” aims to examine the current developments in the area of Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity as well as connected legal and policy issues during the Coronavirus times. With increasing cybercrimes and growing cyber security breaches, more and more countries are increasingly coming up with new cyber security legislations and policies which have a direct impact upon all stakeholders. The advent of Internet of Things, Artificial Intelligence and Blockchains and increasing cyber security breaches means that various legal, policy and regulatory concerning the Internet of Things, Artificial Intelligence and Blockchains need to be appropriately addressed.

The International Conference on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity as also Round Table on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime and Cybersecurity are based on unique interactive format wherein the cutting-edge developments concerning Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity as also emerging technologies on Cyberspace are appropriately discussed and debated with the regional and national governments, officials, corporates, academia and other respective stakeholders.

The said Round Table would examine the cutting-edge issues concerning Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity. The Round Table would inform the discussions at the Virtual International Conference on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity 2021 and also will give details about the Outcome Document of the Virtual International Conference on Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity 2020 and further give details about the cutting-edge challenges that countries across the world are facing.

This Thematic Workshop will also look at the emerging global trends in the context of Cyberlaw, Cybercrime, Cyber Security and Cyber Security Law and what further needs to be done to strengthen the cyber ecosystem.

In this Thematic Workshop, the main objective would be to create more awareness amongst different stakeholders about the emerging developments that have taken place, ever since COVID-19 in the digital and electronic ecosystem.

Further, it has been noticed that Covid-19 has brought forward distinctive new challenges, which have tremendous impact on all human activities and endeavours.

Cyberspace has distinctly been impacted due to the advent of Coronavirus. Further, with organizations and companies increasingly being forced to adopt Work From Home as a default option, they are beginning to face legal problems and challenges.

With more than a billion people having been forced to be in homes during National Lockdowns, Coronavirus age has got diverse responses from different governments across the world.

Different legal provisions have been made in different parts of the world. These increasing new developments in Coronavirus age indicates the advent of a changing World Order.

The present Workshop would also discuss about the irreversible changes that are happening in the COVID-19 times in the context of Cyberlaw, Cybercrime & Cybersecurity.

Dr L S Spedding

Solicitor (England & Wales), Attorney (USA) and Advocate (India)

England

Dr L S Spedding LL.B. (Hons), LL.M., Ph.D. Solicitor (England & Wales), Attorney (USA) and Advocate (India)

Key Qualifications: Over 27 years of experience and legal practice in national, European and international law.

Author of international guides and handbooks; www.lindaspedding.org www.womeninlawinternational.com

Dr Linda Spedding is one of the few lawyers qualified in three jurisdictions: England and Wales (1975), USA (1985) and India (1989). See www.lindaspedding.co.uk.

Dr Spedding's experience encompasses constitutional law, European law, copyright law, corporate advice, due diligence and corporate governance, joint ventures, Reputation Risk management, project finance, drafting contracts and agreements, consultancy agreements and technology transfer.

Based in London, she specialises as an independent legal adviser in international law. She has advised on sustainability, including environmental and energy policies, CSR and corporate responsibility over many years to enable organisations to integrate these concepts to improve performance within the organisations and achieve a sound reputation. This has included drafting policies on preventing economic crime and other risk management priorities in today's technology driven world. Dr. Spedding has extensive experience in and knowledge of international and comparative developed and developing regulatory regimes. She has assisted with particular regulatory drafting needs, as well as implementation and enforcement aspects in various jurisdictions.

For many years Dr Spedding has been concerned with key aspects of gender empowerment and fairness and founded women in law and women in law international with this in mind and to offer a platform for this debate, as well as to make positive change internationally. Her participation in this debate has enabled a unique understanding of the issues and concerns in differing jurisdictions and she is passionate about enabling individuals to realise their potential as far as possible through positive action and collaboration.

Having qualified as one of the youngest female English solicitors she has always considered it to be a privilege to serve as a member of the legal profession and to contribute to the development of the law and the way in which lawyers practice. In particular legal practice, the exchange of information in different jurisdictions and the comparison of professional issues have been of interest to her. After many years of practice as a member of the Legal Profession and an international lawyer, at the beginning of the new Millennium Dr Spedding considered it to be timely to integrate the key aspects of her skills and career and to contribute in a specific manner to the way in which lawyers practice. The Women in Law project was conceived in 2002 – and launched in 2003 – having regard to the:

- advances made in technology (IT) over this period;
- global service provided by the legal profession;
- importance of interaction and proper communication between colleagues;
- value of equal opportunity in today's world; and
- need for life work balance in the practice of the law.

Bearing in mind the trend in favour of increasing numbers of female entrants into the profession and vast scope of legal and related services globally this initiative is very important. Dr Spedding has been concerned with developments in the law and the legal profession since she qualified in 1975 (becoming a member of the Law Society in 1976). Her doctorate (1984) was entitled “Freedom of Movement of the Legal Profession” and addresses the rights to practice as a lawyer on a temporary (services) or permanent (establishment) basis in different jurisdictions in the European Community (EEC). Her interest in this area continued through her practical experience of working in the Legal Service of the European Commission in Brussels, as well as with – or consultant to – law firms in the UK, USA, India and many other jurisdictions. She remains an adviser to both public and private sector organisations, including law firms, and has extensive international experience in the not for profit sector.

Her first book, “Transnational Legal Practice in the EEC and the USA” published in 1987, has become a primary reference source on the subject of transnational legal practice. Following her qualification in India in 1989 she produced a loose leaf practice service “International Professional Practice” that assessed and compared the rights of practice in multiple jurisdictions throughout the world. Dr Spedding has always been concerned with equal opportunity for members of the legal profession regardless of origin, race, belief, age or gender. Her core belief or value is that the individual should be allowed every opportunity to realise their potential as far as possible.
